

Books made into Movies

(Not quite a complete list, but a start)

The Internet Movie Database (<http://imdb.com>) may be used to verify whether or not a movie or book title that a patron suggests was a book first and a movie second.

Searching IMDB is simple if your patron already has a movie in mind. Type in the title of the movie and either a single result will be returned or a list of same or similarly titled movies, television episodes, etc. will. Choose the correct movie or version of the movie then, on that movie's page, cursor down to the "Writers" section. Behind the name or names will be "novel", "story", "graphic novel", "book", "play", etc. in parenthesis and that will identify which movies are suitable for the books to movies school assignment.

If your patron does not already have a movie in mind, below is a starter list of movies with their corresponding films. Also, IMDB's Advanced Title Search may be used to search if the patron wants to see if a book was made into a film. It can be accessed by going to the bottom of any IMDB page and clicking on "Search" then choosing "Advanced Title Search" from the searching options.

Note: If the Writing credits list "story" or "play," they don't count for this assignment.
